The case has been practically settled by the parties and the court is simply hearing further testimony regarding the time the parties have been separated. Property interests have been adjusted.

Streams High—J. I. Smith of the Smith Brothers Mattress factory has returned from an extended trip in Idaho with good reports of that section. The streams in the vicinity of St. Anthony and other places in the Teton mountains, Mr. Smith says, are running full and in some instances the bridges are threatened.

Canyon Amusements—Manager P. D. Kline of the Rapid Transit company says the large electric merry-go-round for the Hermitage grove has arrived and will be placed tomorrow or next day. Other attractions will be placed in the grove before the season is over. The ball ground has been completed and there is ample space for amateur ball games. High screen fences have been placed back of the home plate to prevent the ball flying over into the river and the outer field is cleared of obstructions. The diamond has been built jointly by the Ogdan Rapid Transit company and "Billy" Wilson.

Released—After a thorough investigation of the case, Judge W. H. Reeder yesterday afternoon ordered the release of Serfino Adino, charged with petty larceny. The release was ordered on the grounds that there was not enough evidence to result in a conviction. It will be remembered that the young Italian had gone to the residence of Mrs. D. Richle on Twenty-sixth street in company with the son of Alex. Richle and that a gold watch was missed after the visit by Adino who was arrested on purely circumstantial evidence.

Owens to be Brought Back—Registration papers for J. T. Owens, who is under arrest at Los Angeles, on the charge of wife abandonment, are being prepared by County Attorney David Jensen. Deputy Sheriff Charles Ellsworth will be sent to California for the prisoner.

RECRUITS FOR THE OGDEN TEAM

John J. McCloskey and his bunch of swatting Skyscrapers invaded the city of Ogdan at noon today to remain here for a series of six contests with the locals. "Jaw" is considerably encouraged over the victories of his men and threatens to mount the percentage column over the bodies of the unfortunate Kittens. Upon leaving for the ball grounds this afternoon he had partially decided upon Castleton as the man to deal out the curves to the Ogdan batters.

"Kitty" Knight was considerably encouraged today over telegrams received which indicate that a squad of recruits may soon be added to the cellar champs. He has strong hopes of winning the game today and has slated Sinclair to do the pitching. After an absence of a week, the fans turned out in fair numbers to greet the locals and at the same time get a glimpse of Dorch and his work at short.

A Butte pitcher is expected to join the Ogdan team.

GARDEN OF ALLAH

PICTURES COMING TO THE ORPHEUM THIS WEEK.

THE SPIRIT OF THE DESERT

Scene in Garden of Allah Pictures. In announcing that for Wednesday and Thursday of this week there will be shown at the Orpheum the famous pictorial moving picture film, "The Trip to the Garden of Allah," the management of that house has issued some of the most interesting news of the local season.

The thousands of readers who have read Robert Hinchin's book, "The Garden of Allah," and are familiar with the stupendous theatrical production of the story in New York, will need little to remind them of the weird and beautiful scenes of the historical Garden of Allah pictured in the play and novel. Now come the actual pictures of these scenes. They were secured by J. Parker Reed, Jr., of New York, after a two months' trip to Algeria and 150 miles inland from El Kantara, the gateway to the Sahara desert of Biskra. This is the location of the great garden owned by Count Landon of France, and which was the original Garden of Allah. The film begins with the street scenes in El Kantara and follows the desert route inland to Biskra, showing the native scenes as the trip progresses. Then come the actual scenes in the Garden of Allah.

This feature is in four reels of films and will prove a treat to moving picture patrons. The same price of admission, 5 and 10 cents, will prevail.

FIXING THE PAY OF DEPUTY SHERIFFS

Yesterday afternoon the board of county commissioners, after completing their labors as a board of equalization, took up the matter of the confirmation of the appointment by Sheriff T. A. DeVine of Curtis Allison deputy sheriff. The appointment was confirmed but the salary was fixed at $75 a month, $10 less than is paid the deputies who act as bailiffs, $15 less than the field deputy and $25 less than the chief deputy.

The commissioners have established a graduated scale from the chief deputy down.

It is understood by the commissioners, that Mr. Curtis is to attend solely to the clerical work of the sheriff's office.

The appointment had been under consideration by the commissioners a number of days.

DANCES OF THE AGES

This picture is a wonderful creation which slips along the corridors of time in such an artistic and fascinating way that it is a distinct innovation in the motion picture field. With the two principals in a ballet of forty dancers that is a feast to the eye. Back of this novelty there is woven a simple tale of an old fashioned dancing master, in his little garret room, who still clings to the old fashioned dances of grace and movement. Over the top of the picture, the head sinks to the table and in dreamland he becomes the dancing master of renown once again. At a great banquet table he meets his old cronies who have come together to discuss the progress of their art and thus, before these gay haired men, we are shown the Dances of the Ages.

On the table before them appear dainty, tiny figures who flit before their gaze; a corps of wonderful miniature dancers. They dip back in the annals of time to the prehistoric dance of primitive men who creep from his cave and delights his mate with his barbaric movements to the sound of her hum-tum.

Now we have the slow, crawling, inching and writhing, snake-like, movements of the Dance of the Priest of Ba. Before an Egyptian temple, 1200 B. C. This fades away and time creeps down to 400 B. C. to the Grecian Bacchanalia where garland maidens give forth their joy in the abandonment of youth and gladness. Then the ancient Orient of 200 A. D. comes before us with all the voluptuousness of that period of veiled maidens and Oriental splendor. Then the stately Minuet of 1750 is shown, quickly followed with the wild frolic of the Carnival period of France, then the Cakewalk in America and back again to France where we see the Apache Dance and now the dreamy waltz of all nations and finally we step upon the ladder of today and see the modern Rag.

This delightful picture closes showing the old broken down dancing masters trying to keep pace with the times and squirming himself into the fantastic movements and hops of modern Ragtime dances.

The picture is a decided novelty and will be shown at the Orpheum theatre tonight, Wednesday afternoon and night in a well selected program including a Biograph feature and Vitagraph's "Cutey" Comedy. 10c, children 5c.

CHILD IS SAVED FROM DEATH IN A CANAL

Charles Warren, of the Union Pacific city ticket office, missed the street car he usually takes when he returns to the office from his home at 528 Washington avenue, yesterday and his dilatoriness probably saved the life of the six-year-old son of Fred Redfield, the apiarist, who lives near the Warren residence.

After Mr. Warren had watched the car pass, he returned to his house to await another and strolled to his back yard near which is a large canal. Hearing cries from the bank of the canal, he investigated and found the Redfield child hanging to the foot-bridge that crossed the canal, every moment in danger of being washed from his hold.

So strong was the current that Mr. Warren had not reached the bridge until the little fellow, exhausted, let go his hold and was being washed down the stream when the rescuer grasped his clothing and pulled him to the bank.

In company with a small brother, the unfortunate child had tried to cross the bridge but had become dizzy in the center. In falling, he reached up and secured a grip to the wooden plank.

SHOULD BE NO DELAY ON THE DAM

There has been an exchange of letters between the city commissioners and the Ogdan Reservoir company over the delay in the building of the South Fork dam.

With both sides insisting on early action and both recognizing the necessity of impounding the waters at the earliest possible time, the outlook should be hopeful.

This promises to be a warm summer and may be the beginning of a dry cycle when, to save crops and keep the farmers out of bankruptcy, storage may be absolutely necessary. It is, therefore, encouraging to note that the city as well as the reservoir company urges that there be no further halting of the work on the dam, although neither accepts responsibility for the delay that already has occurred.

The correspondence on the subject is very lengthy and would require a page of the Standard to give at such length as to be fair to both sides.

UNION PACIFIC FEARED A WRECK

As a result of numerous complaints coming to the local Union Pacific offices from trainmen, to the effect that boys living in the vicinity of Utaah, east of Ogdan, have been amusing themselves and endangering lives by placing nails, rocks and spikes on the tracks, the company sent a watchman to that point and secured the names of the ringleaders. These names were turned over to the sheriff's office yesterday.

According to railroad men, the dangerous practices on the part of the boys have been going on for some time to the annoyance of engineers and others. The requests of the conductors were met with jeers by the boys and the nuisance continued. Finally, when it was feared that serious trouble might result from their mischief, a watchman was stationed at Utaah and a number of the young farmers were identified.

In speaking of the pranks of the boys, a railroad man said today: "Along a straight track, the spikes or rocks do little damage other than alarming an engineer into believing that his engine or train is disabled, but such missiles placed upon a track at a curve may ditch a train. If such mischief were permitted to continue, it would be but a short time until larger objects would be placed on the track and a fatality occur. The derailment at Petersburg a few years ago was caused from much the same cause."

The report that officials had gone to investigate the charges against the boys spread the rumor that an attempt had been made to wreck a train at Utaah.

NEGRO GUNMAN ESCAPES THE POLICE

Only after Gus Cordis this morning had told of being followed by a fat negro with a gun from following the negro woman who is alleged to have robbed him and court had been adjourned, did the police learn that the fat negro had been seated in the court during the trial. Cordis recognized him as the negro left the public benches but before he could notify the police of his discovery, the negro had fled to Twenty-fifth street along Hudson avenue to Twenty-fifth street where, after a sprint, he caught a Washington avenue car and disappeared.

The climax came at the conclusion of the hearing held in the case of Mayme Williams, a negro, charged by Gus Cordis with robbing him of $5, several days ago, on Wall avenue. The woman was charged with varnishing to which she pleaded guilty but she denied that she had taken the money or that an assistant had prevented Cordis from following her after the robbery.

Cordis told a sensational story in police court, during which he stated that he was walking along Wall avenue when he was approached by the negro, who, he said, was soliciting. During a conversation he had with her, he claims that she took a $5 bill from his vest, turned and ran. When he attempted to follow her, a negro stepped from a tree and threatened him with a revolver. He said the same negro had met him later and offered him $7 not to appear against the woman.

The negro woman admitted that she encountered Cordis on the night in question but denied that she had taken any money from him. She claimed that Cordis was the aggressor. She also complained that she had been held in jail for five days without an arraignment and finally she declared that previous to her arrest she had been at the colored club on Twenty-fifth street for three hours and could not have done as Cordis complained.

It was after Judge Reeder had announced the court in recess and a continuance of the case, that all left the court room and Cordis recognized the negro leaving the room.

The police were still looking for the alleged gunman late this afternoon.

RECORD MONTH FOR EMIGRANTS

New York, June 3.—The estimates of emigrants to arrive on 30 different liners arriving in New York this week makes a total of 30,000 aliens to be landed at Ellis island before Saturday night. This is the greatest influx for any one week in the history of this port with the exception of one week in 1907.

AFTER BIG PITCHER

Superior, Wis., June 3.—According to a Northern league bulletin issued today "Rube" Schauer, the Saint Superior pitcher, who is being sought by six major league clubs, has fanned nearly 100 players this season. His average is nine strikeouts per game and he has caused exactly 93 Northern leaguers to fan, leading the league both in total strikeouts and average per game. He has fanned eleven men in each of three different games and ten men in two other contests.

HE WILL BE CHIEF OF NEWEST BUREAU

Dr. Thomas Nixon Carver.

Dr. Thomas Nixon Carver of Harvard University is to take charge of the U. S. government's newest bureau about the first of June. This new bureau is under the department of agriculture and is called the "rural organization service." Its work is to take up the matter of better marketing, social welfare and other problems connected with the improvement of the farmer's financial, physical and social life.

There is always something to keep up the excitement.
